

.NET Software Developer

For our office in Tilburg, we are looking for junior, medior and senior .NET (C#) Developers. Would you like to use your development skills to build high quality web solutions for the top of the travel industry in Europe? Then we are looking for you!

Your challenge

As a .NET web developer at NetMatch, you are responsible for the creation of the newest versions of websites and services of travel organizations. You design, build and test new and innovative solutions for our clients. Following this, you are involved in the further development of new features and in giving advice to fellow developers about the integration of the newly developed features into existing applications. You seek and discover new techniques and think of ways to expand and improve our customer solutions and architecture.

The high volume websites we create are built using the latest Microsoft technologies, contain many complex features and must be capable of processing large amounts of data. This means that you will work in challenging projects using the latest tools and technologies in web development, like .NET 4.6, .NET Core, MVC 5, Web API, Visual Studio 2017, SQL and Entity Framework.

What do we expect from you?

- Higher education in computer science (or equivalent);
- Strong affinity with web development, backed by several years of work experience;
- Experience with C#, ASP.NET, MVC;
- Optional: experience with HTML, CSS and JavaScript.

Additionally, you recognize yourself in the following profile:

- You are proactive and take initiative;
- You have good communication skills;
- You are accurate.

What can you expect from us?
